My students describe will describe me as a strict, but fair teacher. One of my key-skills is maintaining classroom discipline, with students of all ages. Thanks to my authoritative attitude towards students I gain both trust and respect. I find it important to teach children about inclusivity and discuss topics related to today's multicultural society. As a PE subject leader, I try to use my passion for sports to teach pupils to build confidence and work as a team. After gaining experience at my current employer Winton Primary School, I'm now looking for a new challenge working with students with special needs.
